New Approach to Investigative Power

The U.S. Supreme Court's decision upholding the immunity section of the 1956 narcotics law represents a milestone in the rocky road toward effective criminal investigation with simultaneous protection of individual liberty.

The court has put its stamp of approval on a method of getting around the barrier of the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution, which protects an individual from being forced to give testimony that might make him subject to criminal prosecution.

A route around the Fifth Amendment has been sought because no one who supports the constitutional democracy of the United States has been in favor of knocking down the Fifth Amendment. It is an important part of the Bill of Rights and the reasons for its existence go far back in the development of individual liberty in England and this country.

A SERIOUS PROBLEM arose around 1950 when a long list of suspected Communists and criminals were told by their lawyers to rely on the Fifth Amendment to block congressional and grand jury investigations of activities considered hazardous to the national welfare. While there was general regret that the guilty could hide behind the Fifth Amendment. there was general concern that abolition of its protection could be used indiscriminately against the innocent, which was one of the reasons for its existence in the first place. The law now upheld by the Supreme Court ment coin. It provides that an individual may be compelled to testify before a federal grand jury if assured of immunity against either federal or state prosecution on the basis of his

The decision of which approach to use is left to the investigating body and will be determined by the aim of the investigation. If the probers want to seek the conviction and punishment of a witness for suspected criminal activities, they will have to forego the granting of immunity and permit him to cite the Fifth Amendment if he chooses.

If, on the other hand, the punishment of the witness himself is less important to the investigators than the information he may give them on a bigger problem, they can insist that he testify but forego the right to prose-

THE INVESTIGATORS still are prohibited from forcing him to testify, then bringing him to trial with the testmony he has given, which is what the Fifth Amendment is meant

The case presently involved deals only with narcotics law enforcement, because it arose out of a provision of a specific narcotics law.

But now that the Supreme Court has upheld itn it car be assumed that the new immunity approach will be extended to other fields. It should prove a boon to people charged with fighting crime on the broadest level.

A Year's Work For Sorcerers

The professional sorcerers of Italy have come up with their annual predictions fo 1961, and things don't look bad at first glance into the crystal ball presents the other side of the Fifth Amend-

What with all the hedging the mystics have to go through, however, the picture in depth adds up to some consolations but no real triumps for humanity in the year ahead. There will be no world war, the sorcerers say, without commenting on the if, where and when of less-than-world wars.

Nikita Khrushchev, Charles De Gaulle and Fidel Castro are going to have trouble, according to the predictions. Of course, they have been up to their ears in trouble during the past year and the seers don't indicate that the rest of us will have it any easier as a result of that particular trio's woes of John F. Kennedy is supposed to have a whirlwind year, which stands to reason, what with his taking over the United States government. The president-elect will also do some things that will cause hostility in conservative circles, which may be the safest never hurt anybody.

of this year's predictions by the Italian crystal-ball gazers

Old-fashioned as they may seem, the sorcerers indicate they are cognizant of modern developments by saying that progress will continue in the conquest of space. But, courageously putting their reputations for accuracy on the block, they see no chance that anyone will land on the moon in 1961.

One of the nicest aspects of the predictions is that all the prophets are in agreement that some notable people, including a few of the crowned heads of Europe and the Near East, will have babies, and probably boys to boot.

In sum, we can be hopeful about 1961 as long as we don't get too hopeful. As one of the sorcerers said:

"In 1961 peace will endure but there will not be serenity."

What makes this year's predictions distinguishable from last year's predictions is not clear. The suspicion remains that Italian sorcerers have been saying the same sort of thing for centuries.

But a little renewed hope each year

Questions For a Press Conference

Franklin D. Roosevelt holds the all-time record for presidential press conferencesmore than 80 a year during his long incumbency

No one expects John F. Kennedy to hit a higher average than that. But one of the more exciting prospects of the changeover on Jan 20 is a whopping increase over President Eisenhower's total - only 15 so far this year and only one more in sight before he leaves office.

Mr. Kennedy's administration will depend on the press conference more heavily than Mr. Eisenhower's administration has depended on it. Yet, despite the relative neglect of this means of communication during the Eisenhower administration, the techniques employed never were more satisfactory.

The press and other media of communication have had unusual freedom to take pictures, use direct quotations and even to take motion pictures for exhibit on television and in theaters. Although the right to edit the motion picture film is reserved, it has bee. used sparingly.

This improvement in technique is a tribute to the skill and energy of Jim Hagerty, Mr. Eisenhower's press secretary. Mr. Kennedy's press aide. Pierre Salinger, has declared he will try to institute changes, with the advice and consent of working White House reporters, but he will be doing well to satisfy as many critics as Hagerty satisfied

One thing Salinger might try that would satisfy everybody is a more satisfactory technique of asking questions. Whether this might entail going back to the use of written questions is uncertain. But no question that is not clearly phrased and does not bring out information of general interest should be permitted.

The White House press conference does not belong solely to the reporters; it belongs to the institution of government—the sovereign people of the United States. They have a right to expect that presidential answers should be in response to meaningful, clearly phrased questions.

The crib in the Bethlehem manger illumines global darkness. Mother and the Infant Jesus stand out above the potentates, dictators, orators and trouble-makers. Shepherds watching their flocks by night make the diplomats of the earth seem unimportant.

The star that guided wise men and magi guides the Christian world in crisis as no edicts, pronouncements or conferences can. The stillness of the stable lifts millions from the harsh voices of council halls. The Child's cry deadens human senses to the roar of guns and voices of hatred.

The story of Hoy Night casts a spell which forums, council halls and seats of the mighty can never equal. No message from any ruler, no droning voices from the orators of any nations, can move man like the simple words, *Fear not, for behold I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

The quiet scene in the manger commands attention shutting out the hubbub from rocket bases, atomic bomb centers and the utterances of scientists, engineers, generals and

PRESIDENT - ELECT KENNEDY should not be too disturbed because a letter from Washington to Boston took eight days to reach him. It happens to all of us, possibly due to the fact that the size, shape and color of postage stamps changes so often that it's

This hitherto unpublished report has nine major areas outlined for House investigations.

World War III, Communist style, seems to be spreading. The custom in wartime is for a daily communique to be issued. Instead nowadays the news items elling bloodshed and death are received in pieceme a l fashion. The over . all effect is lost on the public. Many people in so - called David Lawrence "peaceful" areas like the United States may not be following closely what's going on in the war in different parts of the world. Analyzing a few days' news dispatches from abroad, here is the story as it probably is being told to Khrushchev by his aides in the

"1. ETHIOPIA: We took advantage of the absence of Emperor Haile Selassie and started a revolution in the capital. We aligned his son with our side. He was reluctant but he had no choice. What we hoped to do was to weaken the U.N. in the Congo, for there are Ethiopian troops in the U.N. forces and we wanted to get them out The emperor is back in power again but we have s'arted a wave of internal dissension. Look how, by working from the inside, we got control

"2. LAOS: the battle goes on, though the rightists, aided by the United States, are giving us quite a lot of resistance The U.S. Embassy was fired on by some on our side. A few artillery shells will wake them up. We note that the U.S. has announced it will openly assist the rightists. We have our agents all through the area as well as troops available just across the border in China and North Vietnam, if they are needed. We shall continue to supply tanks, mortars and rifles to the revolution. The other side is on top for the moment but we are not through yet.

"3. ALGERIA: We are operating successfully here We have infiltrated the independence move ment effectively and we have managed to hurt the prestige of Gen De Gaulle as the whole country is plunged into the chaos we have planned. "4. NEPAL: We are busy here.

The king has taken over .The premier has been arrested and parliament dissolved The news dispatches from New Delhi saying that we Communists are "getting the upper hand" here are correct. The king thinks he can stop us. He says he'll be 'neutral' between the East and the West. We'll see LEOPOLDVILLE, Congo: One of our planes has landed in our stronghold in Stanleyville with arms for soldiers who are loyal to our friend Lumumba. Lumumba's righthand man, whom we trained in Moscow, has asked Nasser of the United Arab Republic for "urgent shipment of arms, volunteers and food.' We must help promptly.

"6. LATIN AMERICA: We have managed to provoke riots in Chile and disturbances in Ecuador. We are gaining ground particularly in Guatemala and in Venezuela, and one or both of these can come into our hands any day now. Central America is quiet on the surface but we are penetrating it rapidly. Our efforts with 'students' are paying off. Cuba is our most valuable base and we now can transport munitions and military supplies there for transshipmentalong with our agents and propaganda-to any other country in the western hemisphere.

7. CANADA: We have friends here. The dollar is still all-important to the businessmen, some of whom seem ready to help us break the U.S. embargo on Cuban goods

"8. WESTERN EUROPE: We manage to keep France divided and NATO gets weaker because it is no longer a solid partner. De Gaulle wants France to be a nuclear power and he will not give NATO the support that has heretofore been given. The talk among the Western governments is about making NATO a nuclear entity but we shall see. We can infiltrate some of those countries and we have the support already of the "left wing' in the British Labor party. The NATO foreign ministers met in Paris the other day but got nowhere. All in all, the war goes well for our side." This kind of warfare can go on for years but it will not be won merely by sending tens of millions of dollars to underdeveloped countries, important as it may be to get at the poverty which is the source of great discontent.

It will be necessary for the governments aided by the United States to agree to exterminate the subversive elements. Sooner or later the United States and its allies will have to face up to the need for supplying direct military help to drive back the Communists in various coun-

The U.N. is up against Soviet resistance in the Congo and eventually the Soviet government will have to be exposed as a traitor to the U.N. and expelled, or else the Communists will utilize the machinery of the U.N. to aid the cause of communism in Africa, Latin America and Asia.

In for a Shock

By TRUMAN TWILL

Maybe all of us should worry make them seem to be smarter about the possibility of finding life at first contact. on other planets in the universe.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has blown $96,000 of our money on a research report prepared by the Brookings Institution covering this matter. The report says earthlings are in for a shock if other planets are inhabited, then hints strongly that the shock will be forthcoming

This will be registered on earthlings, in all probability when they make their first landings in outer space, only to discover someone else was there first When this happens, earthlings will go half nuts with curiosity.

They will go whole nuts if they do not prepare their minds in advance for the discovery that the other beings in the universe are smarter than earthlings.

Even here in earth's own back yard, the report says, societies have come apart at the seams when confronted by superior societies and in other instances have been changed beyond recognition by contact with stronger beings.

The time to think about it is now-before it happens. "The beter we can come to understand the factors involved in responding to such crises, the better prepared we may be.

This viewpoint makes sense to me. It is what I have been doing since the first Sputnik. I probably have piddled away a couple months of time wondering about the beings who lived elsewhere in the universe.

There will be some; that cannot be denied. Earth is one of the smaller specks in our corner of the universe, which is only a fragment of the whole. It would be a preposterous waste of space to crowd all the life in the universe on one little lopsided half-dried-up

Having pondered the life that's familiar here, I am positive it must be rudimentary-a half-baked version of the finish product. It simply makes no sense to me that this is the best there is. Any kid designer with a ruler and a box of crayons could bat out a better model in a weekend.

As for being over-awed if other beings turn out to be smarter, I have discounted that in advance. Of course they'll be smarter if for no other reason than it would be hard for them to be dumber. Let's say they are a sure bet to be at least as smart, which will

What I mean is that they will overestimate us on first contact, too, because when we bear down hard we can look pretty intelligent. Its not until we start to behave naturally that we give ourselves away by committing the stpuidities that keep earth from being paradise.

For example, we'll stifle our first impulse to kill our space neighbors when we make contact with them. Chances are, we'll try to make a good impression, instead. We'll invite them to visit Later, when we have sized them up, we'll plot their destruction. We'll compare their educational system with ours, rate of annual browth, gross national product and the payload of their rockets. They might take the place of the Soviet Union as the outfit to beat.

But I'm prepared. I've thought about this a long time and am prepared for the shock of discovering that what with one hing and another men haven't done too hot a job of making the most of their opportunities on earth.

'And the Word Became Flesh and Dwelt Among Us'

story is really a love story—or, rather, two love stories, It's the low story of Mary and Joseph. And it's the story of God's love for errant man. Here, drawn from the Gospels and the non-canonical New Testament Apocrypha, is an account of how those two love stories became one on that first Christmas 2,000 years ago.

By GEORGE CORNELL

Associated Press Religion Writer Love knows no prisons. It recognizes no defeats. It breaks through obstacles, overrides rebuffs. It is sovereign. It prevails.

It prevailed in the case of a troubled husband and his young bride of Nazareth. It withstood the slurs and strange travail that beset them. It bound them fast. And it offered to bind up a distraught world. Men resisted it. They ignored, distrusted and defied it. But love would not forsake them. They lost their own capacities for love. Yet they were loved.

Other travelers paid them little heed. The traffic was thick, and strident with yells of camoleers and bluster of litter trains. No one seemed much concerned with anyone. But love was infinitely concerned with everyone.

It is hard to say why. Men had strayed and stumbled In their willful arrogance, they had fouled their freedoms. They hated, warred, plundered, falsified. They were a hard, harried lot, tortured by dead dreams. The great vision had left them.

But it would not let them go.

SYNOPSIS: Michael, with the precious black pearl tucked away in his diving mask, has twice defeat-ed the Monster of the Deep, who attacked in the form of a giant squid and a viper fish. Just as Michael is about to get away, the Monster returns as a Portuguese Man of War and seizes the boy in its single tentacle.

(Chapter Seventeen)

Merry Christmas

Michael struggled in the Man-of-War's embrace. His arms were pressed to his sides but he kicked with his legs and butted the creature's soft underside with his head.

The jelly fish raised its long arm out of the sea and snapped it down like a whip with Michael on the end. Again and again, Michael rose in the air and cracked down through the water. The flippers on his feet and the lung on his shoulders-broke loose and were carried away. Gasping for breath, Michael felt the black pearl bouncing inside his mask. Just in time he sucked it into his mouth and, an instant later, the mask, too, was torn away.
